

What is MDFT?

Multidimensional Family Therapy (MDFT) is an integrated, comprehensive, family-centered treatment for teens and young adults. MDFT simultaneously addresses substance use, delinquency, antisocial and aggressive behaviors, mental health disorders, and school problems. It improves parental and family functioning and prevents out-of-home placement. MDFT has been researched in over ten studies. Since 2001, MDFT has been implemented in over 150 programs in North American and Europe.

An Evidence-Based Practice

MDFT has demonstrated strong and consistent outcomes in 9 randomized controlled trials, the most rigorous test of intervention effectiveness. These studies have been conducted with diverse populations and settings in the United States and Europe by the model developer as well as independent researchers. The level of proven effectiveness for MDFT is unsurpassed.

MDFT can be tailored to any program. It has been integrated into substance abuse, mental health, juvenile justice, and child welfare sectors of care, and in outpatient, in-home, partial hospitalization, residential, drug court and detention/incarceration settings.
